WT Pharmacy School Decision Postponed

A decision on whether to locate a School of Pharmacy on the West Texas State University campus was postponed Wednesday by the state's higher education coordinating board.

The Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System, meeting in Austin, told WTSU's President Dr. Lloyd Watkins they will be receptive to a WT proposal to purchase a building in Amarillo for a center for continuing education.

The board also approved for implementation four new degree programs at the baccalaureate and masters degree levels for the College of Education and School of Fine Arts.

A spokesman for the board said the board is appointing a blue-ribbon study committee to examine the state-wide needs for a new School of Pharmacy and the decision on where to locate such a school will be delayed until the committee's report is complete.

WTSU, the University of Texas at Dallas and Texas Tech have asked for location of a School of Pharmacy on their campuses.

"The board felt there needed to be more information on the whole state-wide need," the spokesman said.

The committee is to report hopefully by January 1974 but not later than April 1974.

WTSU's request for a school of Pharmacy has been in coordinating board hands for several years. Action has been postponed several times.

Dr. Watkins met Tuesday with members of the board's program development committee to explain WTSU's plan to purchase a building and locate a center for continuing education in Amarillo and to seek their general response to such a proposal.

The board spokesman said the board cannot act on such a proposal for land acquisition until the university's own board of regents has given its approval.

And, she said, the board is not required to act on the offering of courses in Amarillo since the offerings would be substantially the same as those courses offered on the Canyon campus.

The board approved offering of a master of education degree in educational diagnostician, master of education degree with major in counselling, and master of science degree with major in industrial education.

Constitution Opposition Seen Variable Factor

The Texas Constitution, if submitted to the voters next November as proposed by the Constitutional Revision Commission will face widespread opposition, the executive director of the Texas County Judges and Commissioners Association said this week.

Buck Douglas, in Canyon Monday to meet with local officials primarily on an amendment to the current constitution, told The News many sections of the proposed Constitution could pass muster with many special interest groups and if the document is submitted to the voter on a section basis, many sections might pass.

But, if submitted as a whole to the electorate, Douglas foresees rough sledding for passage of the Constitution in its present form.

Douglas was in Canyon primarily to lend support to local efforts to defeat Amendment 6 on the Tuesday ballot of the special constitutional amendment election.

Relating the amendment to a trend toward making all members of the Texas judiciary attorneys, Douglas said he believes the passage of Amendment 6, a clause which would give district and county courts concurrent jurisdiction in probate matters, would not be helpful to the majority of Texas counties.

Doublas said a general feeling is prevalent among members of the Texas Bar Association that every judge who has a judicial function should have a law degree.

"I disagree with the feeling of the state bar and I happen to be a lawyer," he said. "I also recognize that the vast majority of the counties in the state of Texas have less than 20,000 population. Many have no lawyers available to be county judges and many don't even have a lawyer in the county."

Douglas sees Amendment 6 as tied in with the move, also made apparent in the proposed new constitution, to prevent laymen from being judges at any level of the judiciary system.

Douglas said it is simply not practical to take away from a county judge his probate jurisdiction, because most Texas counties need a probate judge on hand at all times to handle the usual matters of a probate court.

"In my opinion, the county judges in this state, lawyer or non-lawyer, are perfectly competent to handle all the probate problems that might arise, he said.

Likewise, Douglas said in contested probate cases, which are few and far-between, the lay county judge is just as capable of determining the facts as is a county judge who is an attorney.

In the constitution proposed for adoption by the Constitutional Revision Commission, county judges who are not attorneys are phased out of the judiciary and are given housekeeping duties as county administrators.

Liquor Petition Interest Down

A move by West Texas State University students to force a local option liquor election in Canyon appeared near oblivion as the deadline for their petitions neared.

Charlie Cullen, WTSU student heading a drive to circulate petitions on the campus, said this week he has gathered only about 500 names on the petitions. Just under 1500 names are needed on the petitions to call the election to vote all of Canyon either wet or dry.

Cullen indicated he's disgusted with progress of the petitions, which are due in the Randall County Clerk's office by Nov. 8.

"I'm tired of it," Cullen said, indicating the petition campaign has run out of steam.

Cullen said efforts at door-to-door petition circulation in various areas of Canyon has also proven virtually fruitless.

He said a campaign through the Hunsley Hills addition of Canyon yielded only seven signers.

"We'll be banging on doors this week and next" in Canyon, Cullen said.

Apparently, the move off campus is a result of lack of student interest in the liquor petitions on the campus.

The move by Cullen, while it has drawn supporters, has also spawned the organization of a small group of students who have busied themselves registering students to vote against the liquor issue should it reach the election stage.

But, even the anti-liquor group has been lax on the campus primarily due to the belief that the necessary 1500 signatures will not be gotten by the petitioners to even call an election.

It has been reported that a large local church has also urged by letter that its members spurn the liquor vote movement.

Cullen took out the petitions about three weeks ago saying he would primarily concentrate on the WTSU campus.

County Clerk LeRoy Hutton said Cullen has until Nov. 8 to gather 1500 signatures to call the election.

Then, if the petitions are presented and the 1500 signatures are valid, the petitions will be presented to Randall County commissioners on Nov. 10 for

Grand Jury's Secret Investigation Continues

Dist. Atty. George Dowlen, still refusing to confirm that the Randall County Grand Jury is conducting an investigation into topics unknown, said he expects the jury when it convenes Monday to continue "discussing matters they've previously discussed."

The News has already been told by Grand Jury Foreman James Underwood that an investigation is under way, but the subject of the investigation is being held in strict secrecy.

Dowlen said no one has been subpoened for the Monday session in relation to the grand jury's discussion of the "matters."

Amarillo Police Chief Paul Hulsey was seen entering and leaving the grand jury room about three weeks ago when the investigation apparently began. At that meeting, the jury apparently finished its task of considering indictments some time before 3 p.m. and continued other discussions until about 6 p.m.

Dowlen said about 16 cases are expected to be presented for indictment to the jury.

Among them are six cases involving sale of narcotics in Canyon.

Four persons have been arrested on charges of sale of marijuana and two are still being sought by Canyon police and Randall County deputies. Two of the four already arrested have been released on bond.

The 10 other cases involve everything from driving while intoxicated second offense to burglary and theft.

Ample Rainfall Needed For New Wheat Crops

Randall County wheat farmers, their 1973 crop of grain sorghum rapidly being harvested, watched the overcast skies earlier this week with an eye toward much-needed rain.

While farmers have been blessed with an Indian summer unparalleled at least in the last few years, have come from a catch-up position in respect to their sorghum crop to a point where they are ahead of schedule.

But, if they could schedule the weather as well for their infant wheat crop, only then would they be satisfied.

"We're concerned about a significant shortage of moisture," County Agent John Brazzil said as heavily overcast skies prevailed just outside his window.

Brazzil said the warm, bright weather has been virtually ideal for the harvest of grain sorghum, until this year the county's number one money crop.

Normally, he said, the bulk of the grain sorghum harvest would come in the county during November. But, already about 60 per cent of the county's crop is harvested and the remainder was planted late or has not fully matured and dried.

Farmers were behind on the sorghum harvest just a month ago as the crop began maturing later than usual.

Turning to the wheat situation, Brazzil said most of the county's vast acreage of winter crop is up and the stand is good. But, the root system of the wheat plant, due to a lack of moisture, is not as strong as it should be and will not strengthen until moisture in significant amounts is forthcoming.

"We need moisture to put it down," he said.

Grazing on the winter wheat has been postponed for most farmers in the county until they can see whether this wheat will prosper, he said.

Brazzil said some cattle have

County Would Pay City $18,000 In Agreement

Randall County commissioners proposed Monday, in a seven-paragraph document, to pay the City of Canyon $18,000 annually for costs not recouped by the city in a joint service trade-off agreement.

The $18,000 figure is just $2,000 shy of what the city has bargained for in a report by City Manager George Loudder, but the proposal does not include a letter-by-letter contract, which could or could not be a stumbling block in city acceptance.

Commissioner Paul Lindsey presented the proposal, terming it a fair agreement. He and Commissioner John Fulgenzi have met with Canyon's Mayor Manly Bryan and Commissioner Jim Christopher in negotiating sessions.

"We've had real cordial meetings but we've not been able to come to a satisfactory agreement from either point of view," Lindsey said. "We feel this is a fair approach to the problem we've had."

A proposal from the city has come in the form of a pages-long contract which stipulates in minute detail the formula for figuring costs and each government's share in providing joint services.

City officials could not be reached for their reaction to the county proposal, and it was not known whether the $18,000 figure included in the county proposal alone would be satisfactory, or whether the city will insist the county also adopt the Loudder-authored contract.

In the county's proposal, Lindsey and Fulgenzi call for the county to furnish communication facilities for city police and jail facilities for city prisoners. The city would furnish rural fire protection and would continue to allow rural county residents to use the Canyon

Financing For Annex Discussed

A way of financing construction of a new South Amarillo Courthouse annex which would not allow voters to have a say if they disagreed with county commissioners was discussed Monday by commissioners court.

Bob Davis of Columbian Securities Corporation met with commissioners and outlined a method of financing construction for $300,000 or $400,000, a method which would be incontestable by voters.

Terming the issuance of certificates of obligation, "better than warrants," Davis said voters would not be able to petition for an election if they disagreed with the commissioners' decision to spend a sum of money for the construction.

Otherwise, he drew a mental picture of the certificates which Canyon Band Parents are to be commended for their Haunted House this year.

It has served a two-fold purpose. It raised money for the band and kept a lot of kids off the street during the Halloween festival.

It was an eerie experience. My Amy was brave until we reached the first room. I was carrying her just in case and sure enough, she pressed her tightly closed blue eyes against my shoulder and the next thing she saw was the concession stand where she allayed her fears with a frosted cupcake.

My congratulations to the Band Parents for a job well done, especially to Ada Crager, Mrs. Gary Garner and Mrs. Roy Cates as well as the fellows who used their days off for necessary construction there.

The Haunted House doesn't have to be restricted to Halloween. I would suggest that it be open weekends for a few weeks. I've never seen anything as good at the Tri State Fair.

Probably the most ridiculous incident in the anals of West Texas State University athletics unreeled last week when the Buffalo football team voted to deny Amarillo Sports Editor David Densmore a seat on the Buff plane for out of town games.

Although Densmore works for a competitor, I took it as an affront to the profession. I think The Globe-News should pay for their sports editor's seat on the plane, but I think he should be allowed to fly with the team, just as any other reporter with the price of a plane ticket.

Publicity that doesn't cost the university a red cent puts paying customers in the stadium. Apparently the team was piqued by something Densmore wrote and sought childish vengeance.

What would be the resulting loss in gate receipts if area media were to retaliate by voting a total black out of news about the team for the remainder of the season?

Densmore said he had been told by members of the team that they would prefer him not to say anything if he could not say something good. This might be a hard request for a sportswriter to fill in a season as bleak as the one we are enduring.

Putting together a football program is tough at WT for many reasons.

The best players in the area from which we normally would draw are fair game for Southwest conference schools such as Texas and Texas Tech.

Oklahoma gets its fair share of top notch Panhandle football players. Sometimes these high school greats never play a down for the school they choose.

If football is to survive in universities like West Texas State, NCAA must take steps to drastically limit the number of players larger schools can recruit.

Football, dazzling university and pro ball, dominates the sports enthusiast's weekend. He is able to see the very best on the tube for free and have it explained to him by experts. This doesn't do much to entice him out to the stadium where he may see less than a superb game.

Coaching football is a tough business, especially in one of the smaller schools where both talent and money is extremely limited.

Senator John Tower blasted the press Tuesday night on the Dick Cavett Show for its failure to identify many sources in the Watergate scandal.

Tower contended that the people have the right to know newsmen's sources. Reporters opposite him on the show argued that sources would dry up and cover up of Watergate would have been successful.

Tower was adamant.

Then the conversation switched to the firing of Special Watergate Prosecutor Cox. Senator Tower quoted White House "sources" in his arguments on that one and staunchly refused to identify them.

The owner of the ox being gored does make a difference, doesn't it, Senator Tower?

Archibald Cox leaked information that former Attorney-General Kleindenst was not only pressured by the White House but directly ordered by President Nixon to go easy on the ITT investigation a few months back.

What's more the White House admits it now.

This puts Kleindenst in a precarious position because he told a congressional committee under oath at the time that he was never under any White House pressure at all.

If Cox and the White House are telling the truth now, the former attorney general is in danger of being charged with perjury — a felony.

He has wisely refused to comment.

Light Turnout Expected In Tuesday Special Vote

A light voter turnout for Tuesday's special election on amendments to the Texas Constitution was predicted this week as absentee balloting for the election comes to an end.

County Clerk LeRoy Hutton predicted that fewer than 10 per cent of the registered voters in the county will go to the polls to cast a ballot in the election, which includes at least two controversial amendments with statewide application.

If absentee balloting is any indication of voter interest, Hutton believes he may be right on the number.

Only one person has cast an absentee ballot in the Canyon office of the clerk and only 21 voters have cast absentee ballots in the clerk's south Amarillo office.

"It's going to be a real light turnout," Hutton predicted flatly.

Even lighter than 1969 and 1971, he said.

In 1969, 187 persons cast absentee ballots and in 1971 43 persons cast absentee ballots. In 1969, a total of 18 per cent of the qualified voters voted in the special election and in 1971 that figure was 10 per cent.

Hutton anticipates about 3000 voters at the county's 13 voting places throughout the day Tuesday.

Hutton ordered only 10,000 ballots for the election, enough to cover about a third of the qualified electorate.

County commissioners passed a resolution Monday calling the election and establishing the voting places for the county.

Nine constitutional amendments are on the ballot for voter consideration, including one which has been given the blessing of numerous Texas special interest groups and another which has been blasted by county commissioners and judges throughout the state.

Amendment 1 on the ballot calls for a $15,000 salary per year for state legislators and also calls for annual sessions for the legislature. That amendment has been sanctioned by many groups in the state.

Amendment 6 on the ballot has been condemned most recently by Randall County commissioners in action Monday. The Amendment calls for concurrent jurisdiction for county courts and district courts in probate matters, and allows the legislature to decide which court shall have probate jurisdiction.

Voting places in Canyon and Amarillo will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday and all voting places in rural areas will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Voters will again be using the punch-card system of voting with tabulations to be accomplished by the computer at the West Texas State University computer center.

Several precincts have been combined by commissioners for the special election only.

Voters in precincts 1, 2 and 3 will vote at Ralph Switch; in precinct 4 at Umbarger; in precinct 5, 6 and 7 at the Canyon community center; in precinct 8 at the Lamb Fertilizer Plant; in 9 at Gene Howe School; in 10 at the Tanglewood Clubhouse; in 11 at Caprock High School; in 12 at Alice Landergin School; in 13 and 14 at Southlawn Elementary School; in 15 and 16 at Coronado School; in 17 and 18 at Paramount School; and in 19, 20 and 21 at Ridgecrest School.

"For the difference in services of county and city as listed above, the county agrees to pay $18,000 per year with year beginning Aug. 1, 1973," the proposal states. The payment would be made in $1500 increments at the first of each month.

The proposal also includes an escape clause but before either city or county could withdraw from the agreement six months notice would be required.

Lindsey, while agreeing in part with the city's contention that it is losing money in its swap of services with the county, has been critical of tying the two entities into mounds of paperwork, the result he sees if the Loudder contract is accepted.

Loudder said in his study made last summer on city and county services that based on usage, the county owes the city $19,922 annually.

Commissioner Bill Butler noted that the $18,000 is about $8000 more than the county had originally agreed to negotiate on.

"This compromise is pretty close to what they've asked for," Butler said. "It seems like it's a fair offer based on the figures."

Commissioners instructed Judge Woody Pond to transmit the proposal to Mayor Bryan by letter.

Commissioner Jim Fletcher reiterated his proposal that the county sheriff's office assume all law enforcement responsibility in the city of Canyon, and called on city officials to accept his proposal as serious.

"I think it would be a great saving to do this," Butler said.

Pond said the sheriff is working on a proposal for the joint operation of the police department and the sheriff's office.

Lindsey noted the problems such a change would bring about in Canyon's city charter, which provides for a police department.

Factor. . .

They are replaced by circuit county judges or county courts at law.

Douglas said in the vast majority of counties, the job of county court at law judge would at best be a half-time job, while the job of county administrator would also be at best a half-time job.

"Yet," he notes, "here's Woody (Pond, county judge) who can do all of it in 100 per cent of the time and is competent to handle the judicial function he has."

Other parts of the proposed constitution would also affect county government, if the electorate so wanted. One part allows counties to adopt home rule and pass ordinances.

Examining the only other major amendment on the ballot for Tuesday, Douglas supported the need for a pay raise for the state's legislators.

Amendment 1 on the ballot calls for legislators to receive a raise in pay to $15,000 per year, and also calls for annual sessions.

"The truth of the matter is that most members of the legislature have many other functions — committee meetings, political functions they're required to go to as part of their office — and if they do these things they really need to do and keep up with things they need to keep up with, they have a full-time job," Douglas said.

He said the amendment has received widespread support from other special interest groups in the state, also.

calling of the vote.

Hutton has said the vote would be durnng the first week of December.

But, Hutton predicted earlier in the fall that any efforts to circulate such a petition would meet built-in problems basic to a new statute passed by the Texas Legislature last spring.

The legislature changed the law last spring by requiring that local option petitions contain the names of registered voters to total 35 per cent of the number who voted in the 1972 governor's election. Each signer of the petition must also fill in his address and voter registration number in the same handwriting.

Cullen complained that the law has virtually made it impossible to circulate such a petition due to the large number of signatures needed.

The petitions must be signed by persons registered to vote in the precinct which includes Canyon.

The precinct involved lies east of Umbarger to the Armstrong County line and south of McCormick Road to the Swisher County line.

been brought into the county to graze but not in the numbers brought in at this time last fall.

"They can still have the opportunity to make some grazing," Brazzil said, noting that in another six weeks or two months it may be too late.

"It wouldn't take a whole lot of moisture to have average conditions," he said.

Right now, he said, the wheat plant on dryland farms is simply holding its own.

Farmers are trying to race time in their hopes for moisture.

"As we get into the winter months, the chances of moisture decreases significantly," he said. "There's no good amount of rain.

And, farmers are finding themselves racing another nemesis of nature — the greenbug.

"We're having to spray a lot of wheat for greenbug infestation," Brazzil said. "It's unusual to spray this early in the fall."

Finance. . .

parallels that of regular bonds.

Davis said the certificates are a new type financing which are handled like warrants and are issued to the contractor then taken up by a securities organization.

Noting that under warrant financing, 10 per cent of the voters can petition for a referendum election, Davis said this would be a closed avenue with issuance of certificates of obligation.

Davis presented two schedules to illustrate the county's bonded indebtedness picture of $300,000 and $400,000 if certificates were issued.

His figures were based on the 1972 total assessed valuation and on an interest rate of 5.25 per cent. Davis stressed that his figures on indebtedness do not take into account the facts that the 1973 assessed valuation is much higher than the 1972 valuation and that the current interest rate is about 4.50 per cent.

His financial program includes indebtedness for a new building for about 10 years.

Following his presentation to the county commission, Davis told The News the 10-year indebtedness program would not call for a tax increase for local residents. He said the county is limited legally to a maximum tax rate and it is now at that rate.

Commissioners will meet again with Davis in two weeks.

They have said they want to begin construction of a new annex in South Amarillo as soon as possible. Commissioners recently purchased seven acres of land in South Amarillo for construction.

In other business Monday, commissioners met with Horace Dwight and his attorney Sterling Kinney to discuss Dwight's McCormick Estates development in north Randall County.

Dwight agreed to backfill a large water way which had been dug on his property and which emptied into a county road and also agreed to erect barricades on streets which dead-end without going into county roads.

Commissioners also passed a resolution opposing the passage of Amendment 6 which will appear on Tuesday's special election ballot.

Amendment 6 would give concurrent jurisdiction in probate matters to county and district courts. Currently, county courts have probate jurisdiction. It would also allow the legislature to place probate jurisdiction in either court.

In passing the opposing resolution, commissioners joined other counties in the Texas County Judges and Commissioners Association which has also opposed passage of the amendment.

FFA Fruit Sales Begin Here

Canyon High School Future Farmers of America began Tuesday selling 20-and 40-pound boxes of Texas grapefruit and navel oranges for delivery in mid-December.

Orders for the ruby red grapefruit or oranges may be given local FFA students who are expected to be contacting residents through Nov. 27, or by calling 655-3921, the CHS agriculture department.

Cost of the fruit is $5.50 for a 40-pound box or $2.75 for a 20-pound box.

A mixed box of fruit can also be ordered.

FFA spokesmen said the fruit is expected to be delivered during the week of Dec. 17, but might be delivered a few days earlier if a large order is submitted.

The fruit comes from the Rio Grande Valley area of Texas.

Money raised through the fruit sales goes to support various FFA projects at Canyon High, including paying for a stock trailer and the annual FFA banquet.

Net Tournament Friday, Saturday

West Texas State University will host a 10-team High School Team Challenge Tennis Tournament Friday and Saturday.

The tournament, under the direction of WTSU coach David Kent, has attracted some of the state's better teams and better players.

Abilene Cooper High School, the pre-tournament favorite, has two players who were ranked nationally in the 14-year-old age group and a defending state doubles champion.

Wichita Falls Rider, seeded second in the team tournament, has the player who is probably the top tennis prospect in the state in years.

Cooper's top boy player is Rich Myers, who was ranked sixth nationally in boys 14 singles. Jana Hanks was also nationally ranked in girls 14 singles. Ann Schroeder was the Class AAAA state girls' doubles champion last spring.

Rider is led by senior Jon Brotherton, who Kent calls, "the finest prospect to come along in this state for years."

Brotherton won the Class AAAA state singles title last spring and was named by the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce as the state's outstanding high school tennis player.

Other teams entered in the two-day tournament are Lubbock Monterey, Amarillo Palo Duro, Pampa, Amarillo High, Dumas, Amarillo Tascosa, Borger and Amarillo Caprock.

The tourney opens at 8:30 a.m. Friday with Palo Duro playing Pampa and Borger meeting Caprock. The winner of the Borger-Caprock match faces Rider and Monterey plays the Palo Duro-Pampa winner.

In other first round matches, Cooper plays Amarillo High and Dumas meets Tascosa.

Each team match will consist of eight individual matches — number one boys, number two boys, number one boys doubles, number two boys doubles, number one girls singles, number two girls singles, number one girls doubles and number two girls doubles.

Should the matches end in a tie at 4 wins each, the team winning the most number one matches will advance. Should the number one match results be tied, the match will be determined by the total number of sets won.

WT Runners In MVC Meet

West Texas State University's cross country team competes Saturday morning in Des Moines, Iowa, in the Missouri Valley Conference meet.

Other teams entered are defending champion Wichita State, host Drake, North Texas State University, New Mexico State University, Bradley and Louisville.

Wichita State is the heavy favorite to repeat as champion. Drake and North Texas State probably have the best chance to knock off the Shockers.

The race will be run over a five-mile course.

Snodgrass and Lane have been West Texas State's top runners this fall.

Canyon Student Named Officer In WTSU Club

Edmund Gomez, a West Texas State University senior from Canyon has been elected program coordinator of the Economics Club on the campus.

The Economics Club is an informal organization established to promote interest in the economics department.

In cooperation with Omicron Delta Epsilon, a scholastic business fraternity, the club is involved in social and academic events in which "we try to form a closer relationship between students and faculty," says Keith Rickwartz of Dumas, club president.

Other officers are vice president Billy Roy of Pampa; and secretary Mike Williams of Amarillo.

Constitution Is Completed By WT AAUP

Final changes were made Monday to a proposed faculty constitution for West Texas State University and officials of the local chapter of the American Association of University Professors said they will probably present the constitution for consideration to the Faculty Council Friday.

President John Cranston said the constitution was completed Monday and Secretary George Ritter, primary author of the document, said he hopes to present it to the Faculty Council on Friday.

Ritter said he hopes the council will call a general faculty meeting to discuss the constitution and whether to pursue its implementation.

The constitution approved by the AAUP Monday would give the university faculty considerably more power than it now has. The constitution proves that the faculty, through a general faculty assembly and an elected faculty senate, would have control over academic matters, and matters of tenure, salaries and dismissal or hiring.

French Honor Society To Sponsor Dinner

Pi Delta Phi, West Texas State University French honor society, will sponsor a dinner slated at 8 p.m. Nov. 15 at the Amarillo Country Club.

Main speaker will be Jack Tompkins, Amarillo advertising executive. His topic will deal with the importance of foreign language study for American businessmen.

Dr. Charles Pride of the WTSU College of Education will present a discussion on Senate Bill 121 or the Bilingual Education Bill.

Special guests at the event will be area high school counselors and principals. Representative Bryan Poff is tentatively scheduled to attend the dinner.

Tickets, priced at $4.75 apiece, may be purchased in advance through Monica Heiman, instructor in French at WTSU.

Price Aide Due

A representative of U.S. Rep. Bob Price of Pampa will be in Canyon on Nov. 13 "to talk with individuals about their problems with the federal government."

Price said Gene Hanks will be in Canyon from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Nov. 13 on the second floor of the new annex of the Canyon courthouse.

Provisions of New Constitution Outlined

A revised Texas Constitution, which some officials are already predicting will be defeated at the polls next November, will be presented the state Legislature today in Austin.

The Constitutional Revision Commission will present to legislators a document which is about a fourth the length of the current Texas Constitution, written in 1875.

Local officials have already expressed concern after hearing press reports during the work sessions of the revision commission on certain aspects of the new constitution. And, an area member of the revision commission has publicly declared he believes the voters will not approve the new document.

The Legislature is to meet as a constitutional convention in January to consider the proposed constitution. Following the reworking, the document is to be subject to voter approval next November.

Although copies of the proposed constitution will not be available until today, a summary of the provisions in the document indicates the commission has eliminated many obsolete provisions — including the prohibition against dueling and a provision which gives the governor power to protect the frontier against hostile Indians.

The 1875 Texas Constitution is about 55,000 words in length and contains 212 amendments.

Enumerated below are summaries of proposals for major sections of the new constitution as provided by the revision commission staff:

ARTICLE I, BILL OF RIGHTS

The Commission recommends no changes in this Article since the constitutional amendment which set the revision process in motion required that the Bill of Rights be retained in full.

ARTICLE II, SEPARATION OF POWERS

This Article continues the basic separation of legislative, executive, and judicial power that is contained in the 1876 Constitution. The revised Article provides some additional flexibility in the sharing of certain powers by the various branches.

ARTICLE III, THE LEGISLATURE

Composition. The Commission recommends flexibility in the number of Senators and members of the House of Representatives. The Senate would consist of not fewer than thirty-one nor more than fifty members, and the House of not fewer than ninety-three nor more than one hundred fifty-five members. A fixed ratio of House and Senate seats would be required. For example: either 2-1, 3-1, 4-1, or 5-1.

Compensation. The Commission recommends that salaries of legislators and other state officials be set according to law. Under the Commission proposals, a Salary Commission would be created to recommend levels of compensation for state officers. The Legislature could accept or reject these proposals, but could not enact higher rates of compensation.

Sessions. The Commission recommends that the Legislature meet at least once every two years at such times and for such duration as provided by general law.

Conflict of Interest. Provisions in the new Legislative Article would prevent a member of the Legislature from appearing before state executive or administrative agencies on behalf of clients or for other compensation.

ARTICLE IV, THE EXECUTIVE

Executive Department Officers. Elected officers named in the new Constitution include the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, and Comptroller of Public Accounts. The Secretary of State remains an appointed officer, serving at pleasure of the Governor, and the Commissioner of the General Land Office may be either elected or appointed. The Legislature may provide for other executive department officers, if necessary.

The Governorship. The Commission recommends additional authority to the Governor to supervise the operations of state government. Recommendations include:

(a) A retention of the current line item veto, and a reduction veto for certain appropriation items;

(b) Budget execution authority, as provided by the Legislature;

(c) Authority to submit administrative reorganization plans to the Legislature that would take effect unless disapproved;

(d) And the constitutional duty of submitting a budget bill to be considered by the Legislature.

ARTICLE V, THE JUDICIARY

Courts of Appeals. The Court of Criminal Appeals is merged with the Supreme Court. The present courts of civil appeals become courts of appeals with jurisdiction that includes criminal as well as civil cases.

State Unified Judicial System. The Judiciary Article vests power in the Legislature to create a unified judicial system including the courts of appeals described above and trial courts at the district and county levels. Municipal courts and justice courts continue to operate subject to the provisions of general law, but would not be part of the unified judicial system.

Merit Selection and Non-Partisan Elections. Justices and judges of the Supreme Court and courts of appeals remain in office subject to voter approval of their judicial records. Vacancies in the courts of appeals are filled by appointment of the Governor from a list of nominees provided by the Judicial Nominating Commission. District and county judges would be elected on non-partisan ballots.

Qualifications. Except for justices of the peace, all judges are required to be qualified attorneys.

ARTICLE VIII, FINANCE

Taxation. The Commission recommends that taxes be levied and collected by general law. Property tax exemptions are continued for residence homesteads, household goods and personal effects not used for the production of income, and farm products in the hands of the producer. The Legislature is given authority to make or continue exemptions and relief for educational, religious, and charitable organizations, for disabled veterans and the survivors of veterans disabled or killed on active duty, and for those determined to be in need of relief because of age, disability, or economic circumstances. The dedicated gasoline tax for constructing, maintaining, and policing highways is maintained.

Pay as You Go. The Commission proposals retain the constitutional requirement that appropriations not exceed the revenue estimated to be available for the fiscal period.

State Debt. The existing safeguards against the incurrence of state debt are retained. Under the new Constitution, state debt could only be incurred after approval by a two-thirds vote of both houses of the Legislature, and by a statewide referendum. This is currently the process by which the incurrence of debt is authorized by constitutional amendment. Under the new procedure, the same strict voting requirements would be retained, but details concerning bond issues, rates of interest, and methods of repayment would be left in statutes rather than placed in the Constitution.

ARTICLE IX, LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Counties. The present elected county and district officers are retained in the new Constitution, with some changes. The county surveyor would become a statutory officer, and the number of constables would be left up to each county governing body. The County Judge would exercise administrative responsibilities and preside over the County Commission.

Additional Flexibility for Counties.

(a) Upon a favorable vote of the county voters, counties would be able to combine existing offices or create new offices.

(b) Counties could enact ordinances if that power is granted by vote of the people.

(c) Upon a favorable vote of the county voters, counties over 25,000 population would be able to adopt charters and exercise powers similar to that of cities.

Home Rule and General Law Cities. The new Constitution retains the provision for city home rule and the provision that authorizes the creation of general law cities. The population limit for home rule status is reduced from 5,000 to 1,500.

ARTICLE XI, AMENDING THE CONSTITUTION

The Commission recommendations contain proposals for an amendment process similar to that of the present Constitution. However, the recommendations contain, in addition, provisions for calling a constitutional convention. The Article requires that the question of whether to call a constitutional convention is to be submitted to the voters at least once every twenty years.

Locals Named Officers Of Riding Club

Two area residents were named to offices in Range II of the United Sheriff's Posses and Riding Clubs during a recent banquet.

John Blanchard of Canyon was named vice president and Mrs. Larry Wynn of Umbarger was named treasurer.

Awards were also presented during the banquet to high-point performers in the organization's play days during the past year. Jody O'rand of Canyon's Palo Duro Rangers Club was named pee wee boy; Jay Morrison of the Rangers Club was named junior boy; and Sue Kirkland of the Umbarger Buffalo Riding Club was named senior woman.

Also during the banquet, Sandee Finley of Hereford was elected queen of Range II.

Dentist Named Academy Fellow

Dr. Hiram T. Carr, Canyon dentist, has been inducted as a fellow of the Academy of General Dentistry.

The fellowship is awarded members of the academy who have maintained membership for five years and have taken 500 hours of continuing post-graduate education.

Dr. Carr was one of 19 dentists to be inducted during the academy's 21st annual meeting in Houston last week.

Eagles To Test Perryton Friday

The game the results of which will spell the Canyon Eagle's future hopes for a district championship this year will be played Friday night in Perryton.

The Eagles, fresh from a win over the Dumas Demons last weekend and still in the district competition, face the team considered to be the district powerhouse — the Perryton Rangers — at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Perryton.

For the charges of Ron Mills, the outing against the Rangers will be a further test of their skill to keep errors at a minimum. The Eagles have proven they have a potent offense and a stalwart defense, but only in the win over Dumas have the Eagles kept out of trouble in the area of fumbles, interceptions and penalties.

In reviewing the Eagle win over Dumas last weekend, Mills pointed to the play of several team members and the lack of serious errors as the high-points of the game.

"I guess we were due, Mills said of the win, the first for the Eagles since their season opener against Spearman.

Canyon offenders fumbled the ball only once during the night.

To Mills, the Dumas win is significant because it proved that the Eagles can come back strong in a situation where they are down by 14 points and still win the game in the last quarter.

That's what the team did and Mills believes it shows the kind of spirit which has held the team together through a tough schedule against large AAAA teams.

Good play was turned in, Mills said, by Steve Mayfield, who is attributed with saving the Eagles five or six times from his defensive position, Tom Grimes, Kelly Forehand and Scott Wilson.

He commended Jimmy Ward, who made over 100 yards on the ground and made several key tackles on defense, for his best night of the season. Doug Day and Terry Slagle were also singled out for praise.

"It's the best we've been all year," he said. "We've had the ball between the 20s all year but had a tough time scoring. Once we got that touchdown, we got our confidence back a little."

Moving the ball between the 20s won't be nearly good enough when the Eagles go against the Rangers this weekend. It will take consistent scoring efforts for the Eagles to win over Perryton.

Perryton last weekend beat Levelland, a team which beat the Eagles by 7 points a week earlier, 31-0.

But, Mills said he believes Perryton and Dumas are about equal in strength.

"They're different type teams, but comparable as far as how well they play," he said.

Mills said Perryton has a larger and stronger team than the Eagles, but the Eagles may have an edge in quickness.

Canyon boys will find themselves going up against 275-pounders in the line of the Rangers.

The Rangers run a Denver City offense with a split line and backs which shoot through the middle. They also have a good passer, a 6-5, 205-pounder, who can hit his targets.

Mills said the Eagle spirit has reached a peak for the season so far and hopes the morale can be taken to Perryton Friday night.

WT To New Mexico For Tilt

West Texas State University and New Mexico State University, a pair of teams who have been crippled by injuries this season, square off in a Missouri Valley Conference football clash at 7:30 p.m. (MST) Saturday in Las Cruces, N.M.

West Texas State's Buffaloes will carry a 2-5 season and a 1-3 conference record into the contest. The Aggies have a 2-2 conference mark and are 4-5 for the season.

Injuries at various positions have slowed coach Gene Mayfield's Buffaloes throughout the season. Backs Billy Pritchett, Jimmy Lisle and Rick Schleider have all been slowed at one time or another during the year.

The Buffaloes have also been hit by injuries to several offensive and defensive linemen and safety Daryl Carr. The 169-pound Carr came off the injured list last week for a brief bit of playing time against Wichita State. He had missed three games with a knee injury. Starting wingback Mickey Matthews has been out since the second game of the year against Tulsa.

New Mexico State has suffered several key injuries, the most notable being to tailback Jim Germany, who has 513 yards rushing for the year.

The Aggies feature one of the better passing games in the Missouri Valley Conference. They have averaged throwing for 171.2 yards per game during the season.

Defense against the passing game has been one of the Chief Buffalo weaknesses this fall. The Buffaloes have averaged giving up 168.5 yards per game through the air.

The Buffaloes have averaged 139.1 yards per game throwing the ball and 190.9 yards per game rushing. New Mexico State has averaged 125.9 yards per game rushing to go with its throwing game.

In overall total offense, the Buffaloes are averaging 330.4 yards per game, but are giving up 376.4 yards per game. The Aggies have averaged 297.1 yards on total offense and are giving up 339.3 yards per outing.

Quarterback Joe Pisarcik of New Mexico State has hit on 76 of 163 passes for 1,236 yards and seven touchdowns. His prime receiver is split end Hank Cook, who has caught 48 for 895 yards and six touchdowns.

The top Aggie rusher is Jack Collins, the fullback. He has 269 rushing yards and has scored a pair of touchdowns.

Don Nava leads the Buffalo passing attack with 66 completions in 131 attempts for 956 yards and two touchdowns. Tight end Merced Solis has 25 receptions for 360 yards, but has yet to score a touchdown.

Tailback Lisle has 378 rushing yards to pace the Buffaloes in that department.

Rainbow Girls Hamburger Supper Fri.

By MARY NEAL HENRY

THANK YOU FOR the many congratulations. They have come in all forms.

LES CURB, WHO works for the National Western Laboratories in Abilene, sent me the nicest letter and enclosed the clipping out of the Abilene Paper.

MILDRED GOOCH SENT me the sweetest note. Others, too. Thank you all! And thank you for your confidence.

YOU HAPPY COWBELLES, remember to see Willa Elliott for your reservation to the Installation Luncheon at the Yum Yum Tree on Nov. 14th.

OTHELLA McGEHEE AND Mary Neal Henry went to Hereford last Friday morning to the first meeting of the new state officers. All except the corresponding secretary were there. We met in the home of Betty Carrothers, retiring state president. And came home with arm loads of records and materials.

SKIP SIMONS DROVE my truck that day so that I could go. Many thanks, Skip. (Gee, appreciation and salary, too).

WAYNE PEARSON CAUGHT me with a pencil in my hand when I drove up to the elevator in a truck this week. He told me that I couldn't write a column and drive a truck. But I have been doing it! May be why this one this week is so short, but then you all are supposed to have been too busy to ready more.

JASON TIREY WAS one-year-old last week. Paternal grandparents, Gracie and Frank Tirey, Judy, Raphe and Mandi Shipman and Jeanne, Jay Wade and Roxie Johnson of Happy; Bob and Linda West and their Nancy and Darrell of Canyon and maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George West of Gainsville helped Georgine and Bill and Jason celebrate.

JANIE HART AND Susan Vernon were "home" over the weekend and in the service Sunday morning with Kate and Morlan McManigal.

JIM McMANIGAL WAS in California with the WTSU judging team.

KAY AND LeMAR Elliott of Amarillo ate Sunday dinner with Fern Spear this week.

LEONA AND MERLE McFarland went to Dallas to market last weekend. Mary Ann Magness went with them to visit Donna Ann while they were there.

HAPPY JAYCEES AND Happy Jaycee-Ettes and guests enjoyed their annual family picnic on Sunday afternoon in the canyons near C.R. Wesley's home. Sammie Cates built a "road" (?) down to the camp site. Everyone really enjoyed it. I rode down, but I walked out. I told them I needed the exercise. I'm teasing, Sammie. That is really a good road. They are going to pave it next week.

DOTTIE FOSTER AND Judy Shipman traveled to Lubbock on Monday evening to represent Happy Jaycee-Ettes at the American Heart Association Region 2 Workshop. Luci Johnson Nugent spoke during the evening. They were also treated to dinner at the First Christian Church in Lubbock.

GAY AND JIM Fellers and their Rhonda, Mike and Laurie were in Gainsville over the weekend to help Jim's parents celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary. They had a big celebration party at Jim's sister's home and Gay said they really enjoyed visiting with all the family. Jim's dad is a retired farmer.

BOYD AND KATHY and Patsy Noel and Richard and Gladys Ahrens of Lubbock visited on Sunday in the home of Charlotte and Roman Weavers. Alice and Bill Penã and Lena Bell Cabe joined them for Sunday dinner and the day.

THE ALL CHURCH fellowship at the Baptist Church on Sunday evening drew a large crowd. Brother Paul Heil showed filmstrips of the Holy Land. LaNelle Todd and Jayne Weeks sang "This Ol' House." Mildred Devin's fifth grade G.A. Girls presented a skit, "He Ain't Done Right by Little Nell." Both young people and adults entered balloon races. The younger set bobbed for apples. Everyone enjoyed homemade ice cream and cake.

FRANCES AND RED Matthews of Panhandle visited in our home on Saturday. Oma Hayes joined us for dinner. Then Fannie and Red planned to go to Goodwell, Okla., to see Dean play ball. Dean, my nephew, and Jim Hand (one of my "adopted" kids) room together at college. I asked Jo and Fay Hand not long ago if it were somewhat tiring to make two football games every weekend. My hat is off to them!

THE HAPPY BOOSTER Club served sandwiches at the Bilt Rite Barrow Sale last Thursday evening.

HAPPY BAND CALENDARS are on sale. If you don't have yours, call someone. Call me, I'll relay the message. You had better hurry though.

OMALEE LOWRY AND Othella McGehee of Wayside Home Demonstration Club and Helen Bryan and Barbara Danner, members of Sunnyhill Home Demonstration Club, attended the Rural Homemakers Day in Amarillo last Thursday. Dr. Winifred Moore delivered the address on the survival of the home. Workshops on auto mechanics and freezing foods also highlighted the program.

OUR SYMPATHY TO Charles and Ina Belle Kennedy on the death of Charles' father, Henry G. Kennedy, 78, of 1908 Second Avenue in Canyon. Mr. Kennedy died in a Lubbock hospital on Sunday, Oct. 28. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Melba Fisher of Lubbock and two sons: Charles of Wayside and Bill of Odessa; two sisters, a brother, seven grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

ALBERT VENHAUS WAS taken to Dimmitt Hospital and then moved to High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo where he was scheduled for surgery this week.

MRS. PAT LOLLAR is home from the hospital recuperating from surgery. Mrs. Lollar came home on Saturday and Gladys Null has been staying with her.

MRS. EDNA STROHMEYER returned home from the hospital on Tuesday. She had been in Neblett Hospital for one week because of an accident in which she fell and cut her leg. The cut became infected. Nelrene will be helping to care for her mother.

MRS. QUENTIN GILL is also recuperating at home after surgery and a stay in the hospital.

MRS. FLORA MIDDLETON, 94-years-young, had hip surgery in Amarillo and was later moved to Canyon until she is able to leave the hospital. Mrs. Middleton is doing better.

SWEETIE AND CONE Johnson and Mildred and Williard Middleton attended the Doll Fair in Amarillo last Sunday. They say Nora and Dee Taylor and their granddaughter, Vicki Todd, were there. Later, the Johnsons and Middletons drove on up through Canadian country on a leaf tour. Milly said the leaves were beautiful, especially along the river.

THE HAPPY RAINBOW Girls are having their annual Hamburger supper this Friday evening, Nov. 2. They will be serving hamburgers and french fries and your drink for $1.25 from 5 p.m. until after the game. They'll have homemade pie, too. Be sure and plan to eat with the Rainbow Girls this Friday before, during or after the football game.

THE JAYCEE-ETTES Tasting Tea is Friday, Nov. 16. The Tasting Tea will be at the John Butler residence and the home tour will include the A.J. McCarley residence. The bake sale will be at Opal's. These are two beautiful homes and you won't want to miss this year's annual tasting tea. Those Jaycee-Ettes always have exotic recipes to try for the occasion.

JEFFREY PAUL, BORN Oct. 15 and weighing in at 9 lbs. and measuring 20½ inches long, has come to make his home with Paul and Linda Swanson and their two-year-old daughter, Shery Ann. Congratulations, Jeffrey Paul! You are a very lucky little boy. The Swansons live just out of Tulia. Maternal grandparents are Mary and Jerral Mayes and paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Swanson of Anton.

MRS. BECKY BISHOP has a new daughter, Lisa Charlene. She was born Tuesday, Oct. 23 at 1:40 a.m. and weighed 8 lbs. and 6 ozs. and is 20¼ inches long. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morris of Happy.

FUTURE HOMEMAKERS ARE having a Stanley Party on Monday, Nov. 5 at 2:45 p.m. Everybody is invited to attend and support the Future Homemakers. You can even place your order early.

HAPPY JAYCEE-ETTES served hot steak sandwiches, doughnuts, coffee, hot chocolate, and iced tea at the concession stand last Saturday at Whitlow-Lee Auction. Sorry that Happy lost a business.

HAPPY JAYCEE-ETTES and Happy Jaycees had a family Halloween party at the Jaycee Hall on Wednesday evening. They had games and prizes for the children and a spook house. The Jaycees had a pumpkin carving contest. Refreshments of sugar cookies, punch, and caramel apples were served. Jaycee-Ettes decorated for the party on Tuesday afternoon.

THE HAPPY JAYCEE-ETTES and their children (and Judy took mine) traveled to Tulia to the nursing home on Saturday afternoon. They took their children and refreshments. It was a "trick or treat" in reverse. The senior citizens enjoyed the children and some of them reminisced about their Halloween pranks and even went outside to just watch the children play. One old gentleman remarked that he and his friends put a buggy on top of a barn one Halloween night. (I tell this only because Halloween was last night).

THE ADULT LEADERS of the Swisher 4-H held a Halloween Carnival at the Swisher County Bull Barn. Happy 4-H held the dart throw.

SUNNYHILL HOME DEMONSTRATION Club stuffed 100 trick or treat bags for the Halloween Carnival which took place in Canyon.

KAHLP QUINN (ROWDY) Bryan, young three-year-old son of Carl and Helen Bryan, had his Halloween costume three weeks early. Helen said he had almost worn it out before Halloween. She was afraid she was going to have to buy two in one year. Last week he was putting his feet in the arm sleeves. Helen was trying to correct him, but I told her that might be the way the younger generation was wearing their skeleton suits these days.

HOPE THAT YOU treated all your little "spooks" nicely.

See ya!
Mary Neal

Arts and Entertainment
Through the Looking-Glass

By ANN MELIN

When the Amarillo Little Theatre production of "Barefoot In The Park" opens Friday, Canyon resident Jim Caldwell will be stepping into the shoes of Victor Velasco, the playboy of the poverty set who draws so many laughs in the Neil Simon comedy.

But who is Jim Caldwell?

Well, he's a local actor who hasn't had his name in lights but whose daytime workaday role is putting names up in lights. He's a painter of signs — for billboards, businesses, you name it.

He's a man small of stature, bespectacled and balding, who was once told that he would make a good accountant. But despite his high score on the numbers part of the graduate record exams, he decided the best way to get over his inhibitions and vent all his Walter Mittyish dreams was to materialize those dreams on stage. Good therapy, he says.

And he's a fellow who rarely touches the bottle, but who made the claim that he's one of the best darn drunks around. And he's right. Making no pretense of humility, he told me that he could portray a drunk as good as the best of 'em. In fact, the first role he ever landed in his college days in East Texas was one of Shakespeare's woozy winos in "Taming of the Shrew."

With no further ado, Caldwell made the boast and then plunged himself into a 15-minute drunken spree right here in the News office.

"Gimme a cigarette," he requested. Upon receiving the smoke, he summarily broke it at the filter and jabbed it into his mouth. Just as quickly, his legs catapulted out in opposite directions. His body contorted, his thumb shot out to flag down an imaginary car outside an imaginary bar on an imaginary streetcorner.

Caldwell portraying drunk

For the next few minutes, Caldwell, bleary-eyed and boozebrained, sauntered and sashayed around the office, became entangled in an invisible wad of sticky bubble gum, reeled around the room in a frantic attempt to extricate himself from the gooey blob.

In the middle of his brief bout with the devil's brew, a customer walked into the News office and cast an astonishing look over at Caldwell, by this time well into the advanced stages of delirium tremens. His coat hung halfway off, his hat was precariously askew on his head and his face was turning as red as one of his neon signs from the drunken gymnastics.

Did Caldwell break character what with the intrusion of the customer? No. Looking over at the interloper, and then at his open-mouthed audience of two News reporters, he proferred one child-like, cockeyed grin and one conclusive, body-shaking dry heave. Finis.

With full confidence that he had thoroughly enraptured his two-member audience, Caldwell asked his viewers if they wanted to see his puppet routine. Yes, they would.

But there wasn't any slapstick in this piece of pantomime. A former student of theology, Caldwell developed his marionette character in an attempt to portray the way some men feel about their relationship to an omnipotent Supreme Being.

Caldwell as the puppet is imprisoned in a mire of strings, manipulated by an unseen puppeteer who controls his every movement. Mechanically, the wooden man thrashes around in response to the insistent tugging of his strings. Finally, in one triumphant gesture, the puppet cuts his ties and is free. Finis.

After his newsroom performances, Caldwell (as Caldwell) talked about other roles he's played over the years in Amarillo Little Theatre productions.

His role as the comic cemetery plot salesman in a production of "You Can't Take It With You" won the plaudits of actress Imogene Coca, who starred in the ALT production along with her actor-husband, King Donovan.

The 32-year-old performer also played the 17-year-old Prince Phillip in "A Lion In Winter," was a poker-playing denizen of the apartment belonging to the famous "Odd Couple," was the brilliant lawyer for the defense in the evolution trial of "Inherit The Wind" and was the sharp-shootin' Charlie Davenport in "Annie Get Your Gun."

And now the versatile actor has taken on a debonaire Van Dyke beard for the express purpose of making a more convincing Victor Velasco in the upcoming ALT production.

Caldwell as Caldwell

Velasco, by the way, is the wacko neighbor of the newlyweds Paul and Corie. A man of blustery braggodocio, Velasco is epitomized by Caldwell as "the type of guy that uses a fancy cigarette holder to smoke a butt he's picked out of the gutter."

Although his favorite role was that of Henry Drummond in Lawrence and Lee's "Inherit the Wind," Caldwell says his real forte is comedy.

If Emerson was right when he said that a comic's perception comes from "a tie of sympathy with other men," then maybe it's that same tie that makes Caldwell so effective at being a funny guy.

Before he put his graphic talents to work as a painter for Pro Signs of Amarillo, Caldwell was employed as a social worker for several years. He's also a former director of education at St. Paul's Methodist Church and holds bachelors and masters degrees in religion and religious education, respectively.

His gift of portraying everything from kings to drunks to little old ladies squeezing their feet into shoes three sizes too small in a shoestore comes, he says, from observing people.

A lot of actors tend to get intoxicated with being behind the footlights. It's an ego trip for them, Caldwell says.

But the Canyon actor says he sees his role of actor as conducive to a healthy ego.

For Caldwell, acting is more than just a stage he's going on. It's something he'd like to do full-time someday.

Oh, maybe he wouldn't ever live to see his name in lights. But that's not important, he says. What counts is that acting is something he loves to do — and something he can do well.

And in what other profession could a fellow get gloriously drunk without taking a single tipple from a bottle?

Happy Artist Specializes In Ancient Pottery Method

Wrought from extremes of hot and cold, Raku pottery is distinctive because of its imperfections, according to a West Texas State University senior who specializes in the ancient Japanese firing technique.

Joyce Boston of Happy will display about 10 pieces of Raku pottery in an upcoming one-man student show to open Sunday in the Formal Lounge of the Fine Arts Building.

Also on display will be about 20 of the artist's paintings and wall hangings, as well as several other pieces of pottery using transparent glazing techniques.

Raku pottery is a little known method first used in the 16th century by Japanese artists of the Zen Buddhist school, Miss Boston says.

One of the most unusual aspects of the technique is the rapidity with which pottery pieces are fired, thrown into wood ashes and then inundated in cold water. Whereas common pottery requires about 24 hours to be fired and cooled, Raku pottery can be created in about two hours, Miss Boston said.

The finished product is a rugged-looking piece of earthenware, characterized by its imperfections.

"Zen philosophy focuses on the imperfection of man," said Miss Boston. "And since man is believed to be an imperfect being, the Zen school holds that his creations should be imperfect, too," she added.

Miss Boston attended the Happy public schools and began her studies in art upon coming to West Texas State University.

Her exhibition credits include representation in shows at the Amarillo Art Center, the Kerrville Arts and Crafts Fair and the Borger Arts Festival, where the young artist presented a demonstration of pottery-throwing on the wheel and Raku.

Miss Boston taught experimental art classes at the Amarillo Art Center last spring and was an instructor in arts and crafts for underprivileged children in Amarillo last summer.

She is currently student director of art therapy at the Northwest Texas Psychiatric Pavilion in Amarillo and in that capacity has developed a slide-lecture for presentation on art therapy to area groups.

A reception honoring the artist will be held from 2-5 p.m. in the Formal Lounge. Exhibit hours thereafter will be 3-5 p.m. weekdays through Nov. 13. Works on display will be for sale.

Chi Upsilon Of BSP Has Funny Costume Party

Saturday night members of the Chi Upsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi and their partners showed up at the home of Meade and Sue Michael in all sorts of strange attire. The cause for the mode of dress was a Halloween costume party.

Lowell and Juanita Johnson came as Dracula and his victim, taking honors for the "Best" costume.

Winning the award for the "Craziest" costume were Don and Jerri Rozell, who switched sexes for the evening. Don was suited out as a buxom blonde lady, while Jerri played the part of her "his" as a fat, dirty old man.

Reports from club reporter, Marion Thompson, stated that, "There were some pretty spooky characters showing up throughout the evening."

A wide variety of delicate delights in the line of refreshments were served to the following members and their spouses: Speck and Monita Benham, Ken and Marion Thompson, the Rozells, Carl and Nell Sims, Jerry and Ernestine Costley, the Michaels, and the Johnsons. Other members present were Shirley Stevens and Nell Haws, and special guests Ron and Rene Matthews.

PTA Chili Supper Friday

By TROYCE MULHERIN

CHILI - EATIN' - GREETINGS:

IT IS THAT time of year again! This Friday, Nov. 2, is the day. Gene Howe School is the place. The serving lines will open at five and close at eight p.m. Why for? You ask. The annual Gene Howe Chili Supper, of course! Everybody is invited. Come! Eat! Enjoy! Visitate.

THOUGH THE PTA sponsors the chili supper every year, moms and dads, their youngsters, and the faculty at Gene Howe, all pitch in and help with the cooking, the serving and the cleaning up. Most of us manage to get in more than our fair share of visiting, too. Do come — you are guaranteed some excellent eating and even better companionship!

A HAPPY BIRTHDAY to Ken Cates, son of Sherrie and Roy, who became twelve years old on the 23rd. Ken celebrated with hamburgers and a trip to the movies.

ANOTHER CATES YOUNGSTER, Ronnie, celebrated his day on the 30th away way off from home. Ronnie's attending Baylor this semester, and his mom and dad are saving birthday swats in anticipation of Nov. 17. This is the day the Cates will hopefully watch their son perform with the marching band in the Baylor-Tech game. Many happies, Ronnie. (Oh, yes, was just teasing regarding those swats.)

EVERYONE IS SURELY eating lots and lots of Campbell soups. And, saving the labels, too. Aren't you! The drive to collect these labels will end on Dec. 8, which is not long off. One piece of audio-visual equipment will take several thousand labels — so, eat and save. Those either fortunate enough, or not fortunate enough, (depending on one's state of mind) to have no children going to our school, may mail their labels to the school, 5108 Pico, Amarillo, 79110, or call 352-6053 and same will be picked up at your convenience. Please and Thank You.

ALL FAMILIES WITH at least one member thereof being a PTA dues payer should have a school directory. If you're entitled, and you haven't gotten a directory as of this time, call your pres, Ernestine Harp, or your membership chairman, Margaret Ingram. If there are any corrections or additions needing to be made to the directory, call the undersigned, and such info will appear in this Gene Howe News. Don't be bashful about these corrections or additions. Someone may be trying to reach you with a party invite! There are a few extra directories for sale at the school office. These will go for 25 cents each. These will sell fast, so hurry, if you need one.

THAT SIXTH GRADE football team, co-coached by Bob Paris and Euris Phipps, has won itself a co-championship in its league in tournament play. Last Tuesday, this team won over Highland Park, 13-0, with Gene Aduddell and Cory Myers racking up touchdowns. Cory also carried the ball for the extra point. The co-championship rating came with the team's win over the sixth grade team from Canyon this past weekend. Terry Miller and Cory Myers carried the ball for touchdowns. Jim Phipps and Terry contributed the extra points to the 14-0 final score. The tremendous efforts of the defensive players played a great part in this win. All team members were presented trophies with the word, "Champs" engraved thereon. And, Champs they are! Congrats, men.

PACK 130, CUB Scouts, held their monthly pack meeting last Thursday. The monthly theme was "Indians." Den One presented the opening ceremony by marching in with small American flags, giving the pledge, and leading the group in the singing of "America." Action continued with an Indian dance and explanation of the Indian headdress. Den One had made paper sack Indian costumes and head dresses for their Indian dance.

DEN TWO PRESENTED an Indian Skit of "Falling Rock." The boys wore papier mache' ceremonial masks and were seated around a black light campfire. The Webelo den demonstrated the athlete badge and explained their Tule Creek Field trip. The boys exhibited their prize trophy — one cured rattlesnake skin, and mentioned their intention of cooking and eating the rest of said snakypoo, now residing in the Edwards' freezer.

THE SCOUTMASTER AND Akela Gordon Whipple presented the Bobcat ceremony for twelve new Bobcats. Those receiving this first scouting award were: Gary Evans, Scott Powers, Dwayne Hollis, Russell Schmidt, Jason Bass, David Hamilton, Shayne Sanders, Michael Longhofer, Greg Persall, Sam Pender, Kevin Wright, and Chuck Ford. These boys received the official brand of Pack 130 on their foreheads, with instructions to do one good deed. (Many of the youngsters refused to wash their faces for several days, so as to preserve the brand.)

OTHER AWARDS GIVEN were Gary Evans, Denner; Dwayne Hollis, Assistant Denner; Athlete badges: Tim Carlile, Shannon Edwards, Jody Detten, Steve Stokes, Kelly Mayfield, Mike Scott and David Bromley. Jody Detten received a Recruiting badge with the Texas State seal thereon. David Bromley received the Webelo Denner Award. As you can see, Pack 130 is in there doing its thing Enthusiastically!

THE PACK 130 Webelos enjoyed another field trip to Tule Creek Dam site. The youngsters received expert information from Bill Harrison, Curator of Anthropology at the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum. Mr. Harrison explained the archeological diggings being done at the site. Quite a bit of interest was shown in a buffalo skeleton that was being excavated. They also enjoyed a cacti snack! (Mr. Harrison taught them how to skin a cactus and what portion thereof is eatable, etc.)

THE WEBELOS ARE working on geology badges and went on a rock hunt. Grateful appreciation to Mr. Harrison, who identified all their rocks, including flint, quartz, sandstone, limestone, etc. The Scouts found an arrowhead and an old Indian flint knife blade. The boys donated these items to the museum. A good time was had by the group, and much knowledge and interest in geology was acquired.

THOSE ATTENDING INCLUDED Bill Edwards, Frank Ford, Johnny Hanson, Bob Scott and Phil Gensler, all adult types. The enthusiastic youngsters were Ronnie Kyle, Kelly Mayfield, Shannon Edwards, David Gensler, Duane Dove, Steve Stokes, Tim Stokes, Jody Detten, John Hanson, Kenny Nagunst, David Bromley, Mike Scott, Charles Covalt, Kent Newcomb, and Randy Whipple. Visitors included Jay Edwards and Chuck Ford.

THE FIFTH GRADE football team finished the season on a successful victory of 36-0 over Forest Hill Sunday afternoon at Gene Howe. The boys played a fine game with high scoring, good blocking and hitting. The scoring went this way: Wayne Wallace — two touchdowns; Rusty Riley — two touchdowns and two conversions; Scott Davis went over that line for a touchdown; and, Mike Bell hit paydirt with a fine fourth quarter interception for another six points!

AFTER SUCH A fine victory, the parents and their sons enjoyed homemade ice cream and cake. The parents presented coaches, Wesley Bromley, Jim Riley and Ken Wallace with plaques and trophies in appreciation for their time and patience in working with the youngsters. The football players each received a trophy for their hard work and effort. Betty Malson receives the kind thanks from the boys and parents alike for arranging the presentations. Great Big thank you's also to Betty Stokes, Diane Wardlow, Jane Davis, Betty Malson and Sarah Edwards for the delicious homemade ice cream. (These are the ladies to call for the recipes!) Everyone was in fine spirits after a winning season with an equally winning group of men and younger men. Congrats all around.

FOR SOME REASON or other, some of the youngsters in our area were omitted from the listing of the A Honor Students last week (appearing elsewhere in this here paper). Cindy Todd, Lisa Erwin, Terry Rudd and Mike Arnett were among those earning ratings on the A Honor Roll.

O.K. MOMS, CALL the dentist for those long-awaited-for appointments — Nov. 9 is a school holiday for our youngsters. Our faculty members will be attending a TSTA meeting on that day.

THANKSGIVING HOLIDAYS ARE scheduled for Nov. 22-23.

SEE YOU ALL Friday night at Gene Howe for the yummy chili supper! Five to eight o'clock. Come on over.

THANKS FOR THE use of the hall.

Camp Fire Girls Candy Sales Start

Oh ye of weak will power and counting calories unite because Canyon Camp Fire Girls will begin ringing doorbells and visiting businesses Friday at 4 p.m. to start the Annual Camp Fire Girls Candy Sales.

The taste tempting selection by Kings Candy Co. will include Queen Bees, Assorted Chocolates, Royal Mints, and a new item, Peanut Crunch.

Proceeds from the sales make up one third of the operating expenses of the Amarillo Camp Fire Girls Council, of which Canyon is a member. Each group receives 5 cents for each box of candy sold. The Council grossed over $22,000 last year and netted over $8,000. In '73 they hope to sell some 35,000 boxes of candy.

A kick-off party was held for Camp Fire Girls last Saturday and Friday the leaders will be hosted by the King Candy Co. for a kick-off breakfast at the Camelot Inn in Amarillo. After the breakfast, leaders will pick up their group's share of the 3,000 cases of candy that were scheduled for delivery Tuesday. Sales will begin at 4 p.m. Friday afternoon.

Camp Fire Girl members will be out there selling in an effort to win prizes for certain amounts of candy sold. Prizes will include honor certificates, wrist watches, clock radios, $25 savings bonds, ten-speed bicycles, and full camperships to resident camp in New Mexico.

The Candy sales will run from Friday through Nov. 25.

Plants Have Taken Over Den

By MILDRED TURNER

I HAVE BEEN home a couple of days so hardly know which way to turn so much that needs doing. My den looks like a jungle with so many plants I am re-potting, trimming, etc. I pruned away about a bath tub of fern out of the planter and am trying to root some in small pots (in Garland's shower!) It may not work, but they are looking good. It seems I will have to dodge to keep from getting hit by the hanging planters!

REALLY, SOME OF these are for you so will thin them out soon. My two year old tomato plant had reached the ceiling also so cut it away back and promised it if it didn't get on the ball again it would be replaced!

REDDY THE PEPPER also got it but left a little sprig. If you need some of the large purple Jew with small blooms, just come by. (Would make a lovely hanging plant but needs near the window, loves sunshine.)

SEE WHAT YOU got last week for not calling in news! I wrote the poem, then named it, went and changed three lumps to clods! The first and last two lumps should be clod if you still have it, re-read it. When Sheree came through like a whirlwind on her way to the bus, I put the wrong paper in her hand. Sorry about that!

I SAW THE Vaughns' new porch which is the entrance to their attractive new room. The Dyers are building a garage. The Baileys are making bedrooms for Brent and Dana. The Webbs are getting new carpet in kitchen, upstairs bedroom and living room along with several changes here and there. The McDonalds have some new carpet and changes I've just got to go see.

LUM AND LENA have recently returned from a trip through the western states to Oregon and down the coast. They visited a friend, Norman McDaniel, whom they had not seen in thirteen years. While visiting a granddaughter, Denise Waltaria, at Newark, Calif., (near Oakland) they went to see the Golden Gate Bridge, Oakland Bridge, Redwood Forests and a Flea Market half as big as Amarillo. They loved the weather, flowers and beauty. When I asked Lena if she sprawled on the beach in the sun, she laughed and said, "The only day we had a lot of fog and smog was the day we went to the beach!"

DENISE'S HUSBAND GOT to go to the world series which was a thrill for him as he used to be an umpire and is quite a ball fan.

THE EDWARDS SAW "London Bridge" in Arizona which was a pretty sight and was interesting to know it had been brought over a piece at a time and put together. Of the 14,060 miles on this trip Lena said the most beautiful state of them all was Idaho.

ELIZABETH MCGAHEY DESCRIBED the Halloween Party at the church as so realistic, with perfect lighting, the characters and blood curdling horror scenes left her chilled to the bone. The whole creation, and characters were carried out by the young people of the church and Elizabeth was impressed by the reality of it all.

TWO SPOOKY CHARACTERS arrived about dark thirty at our house Saturday. We began to hunt up some goodies after our knees quit knocking and our teeth quit chattering. When they pulled off their monster and road runner faces we could settle down and relax as it was only Laura Webb and Robert Boothe practicing up for Halloween.

CHRISTY FLEMING HAD a Halloween Party at her house where a tent served as the Spooky Kitchen. Eye balls, brains, cup cakes, candy and the witch's punch was served. Cathy Webb was the witch, Tim Dustman was a Spook, Susan McDonald a Fortune Teller, Michael McGahey was Dracula, Jo Beth Hillman the werewolf, and Mike Dustman the Mummy. Mike won a bag of candy and a little devil statue for the best costume. Between these two ghoulish parties Michael McGahey is almost sick, except for watching television! From all reports everyone had a terrible time!

WT Roundballers Premier Against Brazilians Nov. 8

West Texas State University basketball fans will get an early view of the "new look" Buffaloes Thursday, Nov. 8, when they host the Brazilian National team at 7:30 p.m. in the WTSU fieldhouse.

The Brazilian team, which placed third behind Russia and the United States in the 1972 Olympics, is returning a summer tour by a Missouri Valley Conference all-star team.

The Buffaloes, featuring a new offense and defense under first year coach Ron Ekker, are loaded with players who are new to the Maroon and White.

Only two regulars return from last year's club which was 9-17 for the season. The three remaining letter winners saw only limited action.

Ekker, who built winners at both Winona, Minn., State College and Hillsdale, Mich., College, will depend heavily on junior college transfers and freshmen he and his staff recruited out of the high school ranks.

The game against West Texas State will be the second on the nine-game tour of the MVC by the Brazilian team. Brazil plays New Mexico State on Wednesday, Nov. 7.

During the summer tour, the MVC all-stars played various teams in Brazil and won eight of nine games against Brazil teams.

The MVC team placed third in the Sao Paulo Inter-American Tournament for its toughest competition of the tour. The all-stars lost to Creighton University in the semi-finals, but Creighton was defeated in the finals by Trianon of Brazil. The winning team, featuring a fast-break offense, proved the tourney win was no fluke by beating both the all-stars and Creighton again in post tournament games. The University of Colorado also played in the tournament, but was eliminated in the first round.

None of the MVC all-star games were against all-star teams. The team representing Brazil on its tour of the Missouri Valley Conference is the finest group of players that could be assembled.

MVC coaches Ken Hayes of Tulsa and Harry Miller of Wichita State, who handled the all-star team, said they were surprised at the talent exhibited by the Brazilians.

"Although they haven't nearly as much depth as we have at home, they have some fine players and their offensive play is outstanding," said Hayes.

The star of the Brazilian team which will come to the United States is 31-year-old Ubiritan Maciel, a 6-6, 230-pounder. He played four years in the Italian professional league and led Brazil to its championship effort in the Pan American games last year.

Ekker has one player — 6-7 senior forward Hector Rodriguez — who was a member of the Missouri Valley Conference all-star team this past summer. His other veteran is 6-8 sophomore Reginald Ramey, who scored 16.5 points per game last year as a freshman and pulled in 10.5 rebounds per game.

Tickets for the game with Brazil are on sale at the West Texas State University ticket office in the athletic department. Admission will be $2 for adults and $1 for students. West Texas State University students will be admitted with their activity cards.

Speaker Bureau Formed At WTSU

Looking for a speaker or program for your club or organization meetings?

The newest service being offered by West Texas State University's dedication to the Golden Spread is a Speakers Bureau. There is no charge for the service.

"We have people on campus with a wide variety of experiences, knowledge and background," says Keith Winter, new director of development. "We want to be able to share that with citizens of the Golden Spread."

The WTSU Speakers Bureau will involve approximately one-half of the university administration, faculty and staff personnel with more than 300 topics available for presentation.

"Our people are volunteering their time and expertise to bring programs of interest to civic, church, school, professional and other organizations throughout the region," Winter says.

"A brochure is being prepared for mailing to various clubs and organizations throughout the Golden Spread detailing what the Speakers Bureau has to offer," he adds.

For information regarding the Speakers Bureau, write the WTSU Department of Public Information, Canyon 79016.

Series On Mexican-American Sunday

The Chicano — his past, present and future — will be the subject of a series of weekly programs to begin Sunday at the West Texas State University Methodist Student Center.

The presentations are being co-sponsored by the United Campus Ministry and El Chicano Club of WTSU.

Scheduled for 5 p.m. Sunday is a lecture by Dr. Jaime Quintanilla, medical director of the Killgore Children's Psychiatric Center in Amarillo. Dr. Quintanilla will present an overview of the Mexican-American cultural heritage, a spokesman said.

"Mexican-Americans: An Invisible Minority," a documentary dealing with the contemporary problems of the Chicano, is scheduled for screening on Sunday, Nov. 11. A discussion session will follow the film showing.

Other programs are scheduled Nov. 18 and Dec. 2 at the Methodist Student Center. All presentations are free to the public.

The purpose of the programs, according to El Chicano president Jesse Toscano, is to present people of the area with the "real image" of the modern Mexican-American.

Another goal of the program is to spotlight distinguished Chicano professionals in the area who will serve to motivate Mexican-American students at WTSU to complete their education, Toscano said.

The Chicano Club, formed two years ago at the University, will launch an active student recruitment program this year, Toscano said.

Members will travel to Mexican-American "barrios" throughout the area, in an attempt to encourage high school students to continue their education at WTSU, Toscano said.

The club has also planned a second annual Chicano Awareness Week scheduled for next spring.

Canyon Federated Club Council Sets Dinner For Monday

Final plans are being made by the officers of the Canyon City Federation Council for the annual Federation dinner Monday evening at 7 p.m. in the Canyon Junior High School cafeteria.

Mrs. Don Max Vars, Top of Texas District president, will be the featured speaker. Entertainment will be provided by the Canyon High School Show Choir under the direction of Tom Jennings. Mrs. Korkye Martin of Opportunity Plan Inc. will give a presentation for the Canyon division.

Clubs included in the Canyon Council are the Sue Hite Club, Woman's Book Club, University Study Club, Heritage Woman's Club, and the Canyon Study Club. Respective presidents of those clubs are Mrs. Virginia Allen, Mrs. Nell Findley, Mrs. Marilyn Dees, Mrs. Harriett Brandon, and Mrs. Susan Dolle.

Sleepless Slumber Party Held

By TOOTIE BYBEE

TIME AGAIN FOR that All-American Night the Gene Howe Chili Supper. Hope you have gotten your tickets by now and are all ready and rootin' to go. The proceeds go to a very worthy cause namely the education of your and my kids, so let's go.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO a dear sweet little boy, Kyle Brandon Hudson, on his very first. The day was celebrated in the greatest style with cake and ice cream and all the trimmings. Coming from New Mexico to help out with the celebrating were both sets of grandparents, two great-grandmothers and a great grandad, auntie and uncle and lots of friends.

AMONG OTHER THINGS, Kyle received a big black cowboy hat and a pair of black cowboy boots, and a very special gift from his Dad, a hand made covered wagon toy box. His Dad has been working on the toy box for quite a while and it turned out to be real special. From one of the good friends, Deann Cooper, he received a Canyon Eagles sweatshirt. Kyle went home with his grandmother and grandfather Hudson for a few days while Blanche and Mike flew to California for a little business and a little relaxation. Hope they enjoyed their trip.

HEARD A LITTLE rumor, but it turned out to be a fact. Our dear friends and former neighbors, the Rogers, and the Burdettes are moving to Iran on a new job from Bell Helicopter. The Rogers will be leaving Amarillo around Nov. 7, and will travel to Dallas for a few days to visit family before departing for foreign lands. Just can't believe they are going so far away. Colorado seems far enough. Good luck to both fine families.

THE THURSDAY CLUB met here at my house this week and of course enjoyed the eating and the talking together. This Thursday we will begin our study of "Gracious Woman," with Joyce Minor being the moderator for the first lesson. Read chapter one, answer the questions and bring your book, body and covered dish and come join us Thursday.

I. J. AND MIKE Tow are back in business. In the weekend's 2nd Annual Cotton Boll National Enduro Motorcycle Race in Memphis, Tex., they took first place in the father and son senior category. The trophy is the biggest in their collection of trophies. So, chalk up another big win (ummm . . . could have sworn I saw I. J. come limping by dragging his crutches behind him, carrying a big trophy). Also going along for the fun was Ann's sister and brother-in-law, the Forrest Carrs pulling their little Holiday Camper behind them. They had lots of fun and lots to eat, huh, Ann?

THE ADVENTURE GROUP of Camp Fire Girls took a fun day off from all their work on the Spook House this week, in fact, two days off. We went first and challenged the marathon ping pong D. J. who was trying for 100 hours of constant play to raise money for the United Fund. Each girl took a turn at the paddle and the best two out of three. His game was a little better than ours. Then on to the Spook House and lots of scary things going on there. We even managed to squeeze in a McDonald's burger before the evening was over. Saturday we all went to the Annual Camp Fire Girl Candy Sale Kick-Off, which included three clowns and a ring master, and clown cookies and lots of fun. Afterwards we went to the Doll Show at the Civic Center. We enjoyed seeing the lovely dolls and meeting and looking with Timma and Kelly. The dolls there were just fantastic. One pair was priced at $2,500. All kinds of dollies.

THE PHYSICAL EDUCATION classes at Canyon Junior High had gymnastics events Monday afternoon and it was sure something to watch. All kinds of feats of tumbling by the girls. They had broken up into groups and made up their own routines and they were really good. Among the spectators I saw Mrs. Kelly, Tammy's mom and Mrs. Lasher, Marcie's mom. Congratulations to those teams who won, and I know you'll be real proud of your ribbons. I don't know exactly how many in the Park were on winning teams, but I know Tracy Armstrong and Leslie Bybee were on the 7th grade team and Karen Tow was on the 9th grade team.

I HOPE THIS finds little Melody Morgan much much better this week. Also David Finke and we hope you're a lot better and take care of yourself.

I HEARD THAT one of our former neighbors was in the Little Miss Canyon Pageant, Miss Laura Lee Laird. I know it was a lot of fun for her and she is a sweet and pretty little miss of anybody's heart.

WE HAD A sleepless slumber party Friday night. Six girls and a radio just kept going on and on and on. But we really enjoyed having Deena Fletcher, Judy Acker, Twila Davis, Robin Wright and Gina Fulton, stay over with Leslie. We went to the Pizza Hut, watched a little handball in the Activities Center and took in the Band's Spook House. Ate the rest of the night away and watched TV and talked and listened to the radio until about 4 a.m. I can't wait to get the pictures back that I made.

THANKS TO ALL of those who helped with the Camp Fire Girls Spook House; Roger and Mike Whitehead, Tracy Cooper, Mrs. Langford, Mrs. Brooks, and all the girls and all the rest who worked really hard. An extra thanks to all who came by and toured the Spook House, and brought their little ones to the Fun House. All the money goes for our projects this year. Remember also, our annual Candy Sale begins at 4 p.m. Friday, so get ready. We hope that each of you will buy one more box than you usually do this year, because, everyone of our girls are excited and really trying to win one of the neato prizes they are offering.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE Whiteheads on their pretty new yellow station wagon. I know Michael Ann and the kiddos will really like and enjoy it a lot.

IF YOU HAVE any news just call, otherwise, I won't know about it. 622-1471.

Sizzlers Soccer Champs

The Canyon Sizzlers Girl's Soccer team for Kids, Inc., chalked up a 7-1 season for the championship in the 5th and 6th grade division. Also to their credit is the championship for a tournament held last weekend in Amarillo.

In the final game of the season, the Sizzlers defeated Lamar Oct. 21 to the tune of 3-1. Melanie Brooks scored one and Kim Wilkinson scored two for the game.

At the soccer tournament held last Friday and Saturday, the Sizzlers took their first win over Margaret Wills on Friday with a score of 3-1. Scoring for the game was done by Kim Wilkinson with two and Melanie Brooks with one.

On Saturday, action against Southlawn, one of the best Amarillo teams, turned up a 3-1 victory with Melanie Brooks scoring two and Kim Wilkinson scoring one.

Saturday evening a win in a game against Whittier netted them the tournament championship with a 3-0 score. Leigh Ann Clement contributed two points and Melanie Brooks added one.

Gay Hammond, coach of the Sizzlers had this to say about the team. "All the girls played their best and did a fine job, but most of all, the girls proved to be successful by their sportsmanship. It has been my pleasure as a coach to have had this opportunity to work with these girls." To show their appreciation of their coach, the girls presented her a plaque.

Nov. 11 Keeps Getting Closer

By REBA RAEF

GREETINGS, FROM UMBARGER. Well, the maize and beet harvests are about to end, and we are hoping for good weather long enough for all the farmers to get through.

MR. AND MRS. Bill Bauer observed their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary last week, and decided to take a foliage tour through New Mexico, to celebrate the event. They went to Eagle Nest, Questa, Red River, Taos and on to Santa Fe, where they stayed all night. From there, they went South to Alamogordo for a couple days, then on to Ruidoso, for a day or so. They returned home on Tuesday. Tuesday evening, they were honored with a surprise anniversary party by their friends and neighbors. Guests who attended were Ted and Mary Lee Friemel, from Groom; Marcella and Petronilla Birkenfeld and Mrs. Lizzie Birkenfeld, from Nazareth; Conrod and Elizabeth Westhoff, Joe and Viola Wieck, George and Mary Brockman, Lee and Polly Haschke and Richard and Lillian Friemel, from Umbarger. Our congratulations to Bill and Bertha, even though they are late.

ANOTHER UMBARGER COUPLE who observed a wedding anniversary on Monday, was the T. J. Tuckers. It was their thirty-sixth. Belated congratulations to them.

LAST SATURDAY, THE Bernard Hartmans celebrated their nineteenth wedding anniversary. Congratulations, Bernard and Barbara.

MR. AND MRS. Earnest Stocker have returned from a flight to the Hawaiian Islands, where they visited their son, Glen, who is in the U.S. Army and is stationed there. Here is Lois' report on the trip. They stayed in the guest house on the Schofield Army Base, on the island of Oahu. Pearl Harbor is there, and the Stockers toured the harbor on a boat for tourists, provided by the U.S. Navy. Their guide narrated the story of the Pearl Harbor attack and pointed out the pass between two mountain ranges, where the 353 Japanese planes came through to bomb out ships in the harbor in 1941.

THE U.S.S. ARIZONA was one of many ships sunk and it was never raised. A Memorial to the Arizona spans the sunken hull of the ship, where more than 1100 men are entombed inside the ship at the bottom of the harbor. The names of the entombed men are engraved on one wall of the Memorial. The U.S. flag is flown every day from the protruding mast of the sunken ship.

THE MAIN CROPS on the islands are pineapple and sugar cane and a few banana trees. The Military occupies the greater part of the island and tourism is the main trade near the beaches. The climate compares with that of the mountains of New Mexico in the summer time. On Oahu island, the rain comes down in the form of a light mist and doesn't interfere with any of the activities. The soil is red and the mountain ranges are dark, but the sand on the beaches is light colored.

THERE ARE MANY places to visit on the islands. There is a Botannical Garden, which covers some 27 acres, an under water Sea Show, a museum, the Dole Pineapple Plant and the beaches. There is a profusion of all kinds of flowers in full bloom and many shrubs.

THE STOCKERS ARRIVED back in Dallas after an eight hour non-stop flight from Honolulu. While in Dallas, they visited their daughter and her family, the Gene Magera's and at Krum, they visited with their son and his family, the Gene Stockers. They arrived home on Saturday.

MR. AND MRS. Otto Schindler, from Sugarland, visited with Eddie and Armella Wieck, one day last week.

LAST SATURDAY, MRS. Jack Davis went to San Jon, N.M., to visit her husband, who is employed there. She also visited with her son Monty Sasser and his family, who live near San Jon.

MR. AND MRS. Arnie Wieck and baby and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wieck and family, from Hartley visited the Eddie Wiecks last weekend.

THE BILL GERBERS had as their guests last Sunday, the Glenn Gerbers, the Don Gerbers and Linda Gerber, from Amarillo and the Jim Wiecks, from Hartley.

LAST SUNDAY EVENING, Sharon Ramaekers was honored with a surprise party, on her sixteenth birthday. The event was held at the Bernard Hartman home. After the guests sang "Happy Birthday" to Sharon, the evening was spent playing cards and listening to records. There were thirty guests for the party.

THE RETREAT FOR the Catholic Youth Organization will be held Sunday, Nov. 18. Father Ken Keller, of St. Mary's Parish, in Amarillo, will conduct the retreat.

ONLY TEN DAYS, now, till our German Sausage Festival. The sausage will be made next week and the final preparations will be made for the big day, Nov. 11. In addition to the dinner, there will be a "Country Store," with home made breaks, cakes, candies, home canned products, sweet rolls, etc., all prepared by the ladies of the community. There will also be a bazaar with all sorts of pretty and useful articles, along with stuffed toys, for sale. In the evening, Tiny Lynn and his band will provide the music for the dance which will begin at 8:30 and end at 12:00. So, ya'll come, we'd love having you. We are praying that the weather will be nice that day.

WATCH THIS COLUMN, for schedules for volley ball practices. Teams are being organized and schedules will be made out and we will let you know about them, as soon as they are completed.

THE FOURTH DEGREE Knights of Columbus held their quarterly supper last Sunday evening, in the Columbus Club Hall. A delicious meal was served and the evening was spent playing cards and dominoes. Hosts for the supper were the Conros Westhoff's, Ben Koch's, Jack Brandt's and Leonard Batenhorst's.

THE HENRY BRACHTS spent Sunday in the George Hund home, in Hereford. They played cards, ate supper and played some more cards. Mrs. Bracht and Mrs. Hund are sisters.

THE MASSES ON All Saints Day, Nov. 1, will be at 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. On All Souls Day, Nov. 2, the Masses will be at 8 a.m. and 8 p.m.

I WOULD LIKE to say "Happy Birthday" to my husband, Lewie, who will have another birthday Friday, Nov. 2.

THE RESPONSE TO the 4-H drive for aluminum beverage cans has been pretty good, thanks to all their friends.

THAT'S ABOUT ALL for this time, but if you have news for me, please call me.

Had a party? Or giving one? Tell The Canyon News about it. Telephone 655-7121, or stop by the News office on the south side of the square.

Music Conference Saturday

The 6th annual Music Career Conference for high school students will be conducted by the West Texas State University music department Nov. 3 on campus in Canyon.

The conference enables prospective music students to acquaint themselves with the various career opportunities available in the field of music.

Any student presently enrolled in the 9th through 12th grades and is considering a career in music is eligible to attend, says Dr. George Umberson, department chairman.

Enrollment will be limited and priority given in the order that applications are received, he says. Each application will be acknowledged and a schedule will be sent the student. There is no charge for attending the conference.

Advisory examinations will be administered to help determine a student's musical aptitude and background, Umberson says.

Each student will be scheduled to perform individually for a faculty member who is a specialist in voice, piano, organ, string, woodwind, brass or percussion instruments.

Each participant will be involved in group counseling at which time opportunities in music and the requirements for the various areas of the field will be discussed, he says.

"This conference is designed as a service for students contemplating a career in music, and for their parents and teachers, Umberson says. "It is not a contest, but rather a means for noting strengths and weaknesses of a student in an effort to help him prepare for study at the college level in the field of music."

AAUW To Have Meeting Sat.

The American Association of University Women will meet Saturday at 2 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Darrell Munsell, 2430 15th Ave., for a meeting.

Assisting Mrs. Munsell will be Donna Umberson, Joan Carlson, Martha Goodman and Jane Wheeler who will serve a dessert course to the guests.

A panel discussion titled "A Woman's Viewpoint" will be the main program.

Lobo Cancelled

The Lobo concert, slated for 8 p.m. Sunday at West Texas State University, has been cancelled, according to Student Activities Council program director Jim Holston.
